Manual alumni honor 1961 graduate and present 11 scholarships to students

By Al Stille
Editor

Alice Hughes Glover, the Emmerich Manual High School 2023 Alumnus of the Year, reassured alumni that the historic Manual name will continue during the annual alumni luncheon Friday at the Primo Banquet and Convention Center.

The historic high school is operating as a combined Christel House charter school and Indianapolis Public Schools innovative school after struggling for several years to continue educating students on the Southside before falling under a state mandate.

Glover emphasized that the Manual name will not be lost.

"We, though, are not going away," Glover said in remarks to alumni before receiving her award for her service on the alumni board and helping to preserve and store many school artifacts with the cooperation of Christel House and IPS personnel. She also helped in establishing a new alumni room at the high school.

Manual alumni will continue to be invested in the history and future of the school that was founded in 1895 on the near-Southside and was relocated to its current site at 2405 S. Madison Ave., in 1953.

She provided an update on the school, emphasizing that the school is now full.

She emphasized that the Manual name would always be attached to the school because of its 100-plus year Junior ROTC program that is a historic agreement between Manual High School and the ROTC.

The alumni organization is arguably the largest in Indiana and has supported the school for decades.

Hundreds of alumni attended the luncheon Friday with seating at tables marked by the decade in which attendees graduated from Manual. Also, selected Christel House at Manual administrators and teachers were in attendance.

Of significance, alumni honored 11 high school seniors with scholarships (name, college major, and college to attend): Javon Tyler, sports management, Indiana State University (ISU); Anna Ramsey, psychology, University of Indianapolis (UIndy); Terrance Hill, sports management, ISU; Gracie

Archer, psychology, ISU; John Robinson, engineering, Purdue University; Miriam Chavez, education, IUB; Susan Edenfield, digital design, ISU; Zion Hudson, theater, business, Howard University; Man Ciang, business, IUB; Deshon Hollis, archeology, St. Joseph's; and Jada Parker, law or medicine, UIndy.

Alumni stood and enthusiastically sang the Manual High School song. Alumni who served as military veterans also were recognized. Each attending member of the Class of 1973 also

Emmerich Manual High School 2023 Alumnus of the Year Alice Hughes Glover (Class of 1961)

Born in 1943, Alice has been a lifelong resident of the Garfield Park South neighborhood. She first attended EMHS in 1956 when her eighth-grade class was relocated to the third floor due to IPS School No. 72 being overcrowded.

In the following four years, Alice was a homeroom representative, Pep Club officer, Redskin Revue, ROTC sponsor, and League of Honor.

After high school, Alice attended Indiana Central College (now University of Indianapolis) for two years and worked at W.H. Block Co. as assistant manager in the jewelry department. After that, she managed a gift shop at Southern Plaza Shopping Center, where she later became advertising director and on-location manager.

Alice first became a member of the Manual Alumni Board in 1976 and stayed until 1986 when she accepted a sales job with AT&T Yellow pages that required travel. She retired in 2006 and returned to the alumni board as a member and later was appointed board president.

Over the years, Alice has often mentioned how fortunate she is to work with such exceptional board members whose aggregate contributions serve to make the alumni board so successful.

Additionally, she was flattered to read the following email request written by board treasurer Willis Overton which he sent to a fellow board member: "I can't be there today but would you do me a favor and nominate Alice for Alumnus of the Year. She has gone above and beyond with the creation of a 'new' Alumni Room, working with both the Christel House people and the Florida group, as well as moving items to both the Broad Ripple IPS 'holding area' and both the Indiana Basketball and Track halls of fame."

In conclusion, being a lifelong resident of the Garfield Park area, Alice and her husband Roger's lives have been blessed by hard work; compassion and kindness to others; the adventures of international travel, before and after retirement; quality time spent with family and grandchildren; enjoyable fellowship with old friends and neighbors; and the opportunity to support her Alma Mater through many years of service on the Manual Alumni Board.

Manual alumni honored 11 seniors from Christel House at Manual with scholarships that were presented with high school administrators and teachers. The honored seniors are, not in order, Javon Tyler, Anna Ramsey, Terrance Hill, Gracie Archer, John Robinson, Miriam Chavez, Susan Edenfield, Zion Hudson, Man Ciang, Deshon Hollis, and Jada Parker.

Open pages are from the 1958 IVIAN yearbook of Emmerich Manual High School that was among yearbooks on display at the annual alumni luncheon Friday on the Southside.

introduced themselves at the podium as members of the 50-year class. Available 50-year apparel was a hot item for alumni to purchase.

Warren Sherman, Class of 1943, was acknowledged as the oldest alumni in attendance.

Alumni gathered for a long time reminiscing even after the luncheon ended.

The next major alumni gathering will be the "Manual Day" picnic Aug. 24 at German Park, 8600 S. Meridian Street.

Manual alumni fill Primo Banquet and Conference Center on Southside Friday with a huge turnout.

Class! Class! Is the second book just published in an inspirational series written by Southside author Melanie Lovejoy, aka LC Young, and is now available.

GEOH, the main character, is a sixth-grader who has trepidations about a new school year and how he will be accepted.

Her first book was about GEOH's concerns about going to a different school, If: GEOH's Back to School. The themes in each book are positive: first, Oh, What I could be; the second, Oh! What a place this would be!

GEOH, as Lovejoy explained, is an acronym for the first names of her parents but also relates to his traits of Greatness, Excellence, Overcoming obstacles, and Heart. Class! Class! also shows the positive ways that a teacher can connect with students.

The Hawaiian-born author is the wife of educator Tim Lovejoy, director of the Compass Education Center in Perry Township.

She also has done many readings with students in schools, particularly in New York and Virginia, that fit with multiple literacy standards. Her books and presentations encourage readers of all ages to be the best that you can be.

She also is completing a trilogy, Utterly, Utterly, for teenagers and young adults who are struggling with relationships. Her two published books, (Christian Faith Publishing, Meadville, Penn.) are available at amazon.com, Apple Books, Walmart, and Barnes & Noble Booksellers. Info: www.iamgeoh.com.

Primary voters select Shreve and Hogsett in Indy; Myers wins in Greenwood

Greenwood Mayor Mark W. Myers and supporters give thumbs up in victory at gathering of supporters at Oaken Barrel in Greenwood after Myers won GOP mayoral primary against challenger Ed Hubbard.

Primary election day voters elected Republican Jefferson Shreve, who grew up in Perry Township, to challenge incumbent Democrat Mayor Joe Hogsett in the Nov. 7 General Election.

Shreve, a first-time mayoral candidate, garnered 66 percent of the vote in a four-way primary race. Hogsett snared 58 percent with formidable challenger, statehouse Rep. Robin Shackelford with 38 percent.

In a post-primary interview on Fox59, Shreve affirmed that his message "resonated with the majority of primary voters."

Shreve emphasized crime in the city and the need for more police officers. He stressed that "people need to feel safe downtown and in their own neighborhood."

Incumbent city-county councilor Paul Annee received 43 percent of the vote in a three-way GOP District 22 race.

In Beech Grove, longtime business owner Jim Coffman dominated with 82 percent of the vote against political newcomer Jay Wright in the Democratic mayoral primary. Coffman will oppose Republican Rick Skirvin in the General Election.

In Democrat Primary council races, the winners were Kelsey Behl (District 2), Autumn James (District 3), and Johnathan Broadwell (District 5). Samantha Stratton won the clerk-treasurer Democrat race against Rob Challis by 58 percent.

In Greenwood, incumbent Republican Mayor Mark W. Myers, seeking a fourth term, fought off a vicious political challenge by former Center Grove School Board member Ed Hoffman with 55 percent of the vote. So far, Myers is unopposed in the General Election.

Myers met later May 2 with backers at Oaken Barrel and said, "Words can never express how glad I am that the people of Greenwood have put their faith in me and my administration to lead the city for four more years in the right direction."

He also addressed a vitriolic primary race and said, "Greenwood is a great community that I was born in, raised in. It really breaks my heart to see D.C. politics brought into our community. We're going to make Greenwood whole again; a city that loves each other and supports each other ... we are a city of pride and progress and proud of where we're going."

Some incumbents did not make it through the GOP primary. Drew Foster defeated 27-year incumbent Lewis Gregory with a 62 percent plurality. And Teri Manship had 54 percent of the vote in District 4 where incumbent Ron Bates was ousted.

Incumbents Mike Campbell and Erin Betron plus former school board member Steve Moan won the three GOP at-large spots in a six-way race. Incumbent Linda Gibson defeated Hurley Davis in District 1.

In Southport, Larry Tunget defeated Kristin Harris in the GOP primary race for District 4.

And in Whiteland, incumbent Brad Goedeker and challenger Scott Ford tied with 103 votes apiece in the GOP race for Ward 2. In Ward 1, Tim Brown unseated incumbent David Hawkins with 68 percent of the vote.

SURPRISED TO SEE A CAR, TRAILER

A couple of weeks ago, I was enjoying my morning coffee and watching The Today Show. I was about to move on to my next assignment when I heard someone on the TV say that there was going to be a segment about the returning of an aircraft carrier to its base after a long deployment.

I poured myself more coffee and settled back to watch. Soon, Jenna Bush-Hager, began explaining that she had been to the port when the crew of the USS George H.W. Bush (Aircraft carrier) were welcomed ashore to reconnect with their families. This aircraft carrier is named after Jenna's grandfather and former President, George H.W. Bush.

I really enjoyed watching families reunite after the deployment of a family member. This one was really fun and special. I saw one crew member meet his newborn daughter for the very first time. I also enjoy when a returning military member surprises their son or daughter by dressing up and showing up at school.

Sometimes something like this reminds me of a double family surprise that I was involved in as a member of the Indiana National Guard. After my basic training at Ft. Knox, I was sent to an advanced training course at Aberdeen Proving Grounds in Maryland. Because I was returning home after this training assignment, I was allowed to drive my personal car to the training.

The training was very intense, and we spent the weekends studying and trying to keep up. Weekend studying allowed me to get better acquainted with a few classmates. After the third week, our instructor gave us a weekend pass without any weekend assignments.

I quickly connected with three of my classmates and suggested we should go to Baltimore for the weekend. A couple of them didn't even know that I had my car with me. We got our passes, grabbed some clothes, and we were out of there.

Soon, we were on the highway heading to Baltimore. It was a Friday evening and traffic was very intense. We were making our weekend plans while we were slowly moving in the traffic.

We were traveling on a four-lane highway. I was in the outside lane heading north. We were listening to music on the radio and enjoying ourselves. As we were driving, I noticed a car pulling a small travel trailer in the left lane. It was several vehicles ahead of us. I smiled because it reminded me of home, because it looked like my parents' car and sort of like their travel trailer.

A few minutes later, the left lane slowed, and we got quite a bit closer to the car and travel trailer. I began to smile and quited down, so I stayed behind the trailer. I pulled closer a couple of more times, just to be sure. I then explained to my buddies that the car and travel trailer in the lane beside us belonged to my parents.

I made a quick plan and pulled alongside of them, and we yelled and waved. It was my mother, father, sister and her college roommate.

They were shocked and surprised. Dad and I did some fancy maneuvering and finally got both vehicles into a parking area. We laughed and hugged for a long time. They explained that this was supposed to be a surprise visit from them and not the other way around.

I told them that I was totally surprised when I saw their car and trailer. They really did surprise me, but I got to return the surprise in about 10 minutes.

My buddies caught a bus to Baltimore, and I followed my parents to the camping ground where they had a spot reserved for the trailer. It was a wonderful weekend and I believe we laughed the whole time. I had to tell the entire story in class on Monday.

Roncalli continues to reign over county softball tourney

Roncalli's Carly Keller (20) takes a break while warming up before Royals defeated North Central in semifinal of county tourney Saturday at Ben Davis. Keller slammed two hits and scored a run against Southport in the quarterfinal game earlier. Teammates Madeline Annee (6) and Emma Fegan await their turn to warm up.

During break in action against North Central, Roncalli coach Dave Lauck confers with Natalie Summers (18), Abby Willis (10), and Eva Hurrle (12).

Franklin Central infielders celebrate another strikeout by pitcher Kiley Renick (4) during Saturday's Marion County game against Brebeuf. Renick struck out nine Braves.

Roncalli scored back-to-back Marion County Softball Championships Monday with a 7-1 win against Franklin Central at Ben Davis. The Royals 14-hit attack backed pitcher Keagan Rothrock who struck out 16 flashes. FC scored its lone run in the seventh inning.

Defending champion Roncalli handled Lutheran 11-1 in five innings Friday at home, and then shut out Southport 11-0, also in five innings, and North Central 10-0 in six innings Saturday at Ben Davis.

Once the hits began for Franklin Central in the county tourney, they kept coming in a 9-8 opening night Friday at Beech Grove, and then Saturday dumped Lawrence North, 11-1 with 10 hits in six innings in the quarterfinal round, and 26-2 with 23 hits in the semifinal against undermanned Brebeuf at Ben Davis.

Explaining the three-game barrage, sophomore Jady Tinsley said, "Once one (player) starts hitting, we all start hitting."

Junior Jenna Thompson remarked, "We rally behind each other; we come together and start getting hits."

Although the Flashes escaped at Beech Grove with a one-run win, FC was ahead 9-6 going into the bottom of the seventh before stopping a Hornets rally that fell short. FC scored eight runs in the last three innings.

FC soph Audrina Yorn led the attack with three hits and scored two runs; Kasey Hinkle, Sarah Miller, and Adelaide Hubbard had two hits apiece against BG. Aubree Bailey and Carmen Amaiston each had two hits for the Hornets.

Against Lawrence North, Flashes leadoff hitter Miller reached first on an infield error and scored on Tinsley's triple before a six-run second inning broke the game open. Tinsley wound up with three RBI, Thompson had three hits and two RBI, and Miller scored three runs.

FC junior pitcher Mallory Stinson allowed only one run on three hits and struck out five Wildcats.

Against Brebeuf, the Flashes erupted for seven runs in the first with 10 trips to the plate, 10 runs in the second with 14 trips, and nine runs in the third again with 14 trips. One dozen Flashes had hits as Kaylie Grayson, August Coons, and Kaylin Cook each had three hits. Coons drove in four runs in two trips to the plate in the second inning. Tinsley and Abigail Kirstein each drove in three runs.

FC freshman pitcher Kiley Renick had a no-hitter for four innings, gave up one run on two hits and struck out nine Braves.

"Kiley did a great job," FC coach Kathy Stricker said. "We're playing good softball; we're getting better and better as the season goes on."

Roncalli's Royals wasted little time getting to the championship game, winning two games in five innings and one game in six.

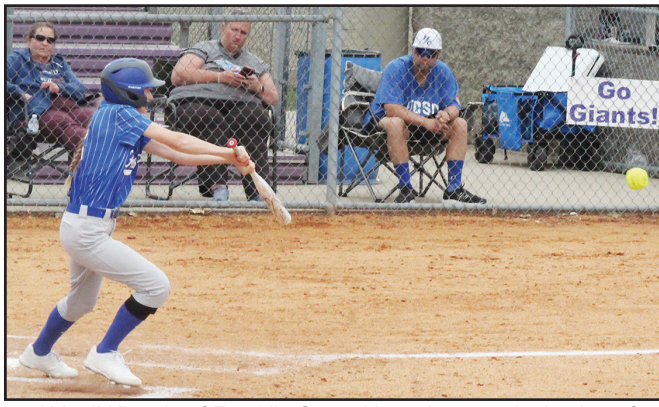

Keagan Rothrock struck out 11 Lutheran batters. Lyla Blackwell led at the plate with a double and triple and four RBI. Emma Fagan and Lauren Marsicek each slammed home runs. Natalie Summers racked up three hits.

Against Southport, the Royals exploded for six runs in the first inning to advance. Lyla Blackwell had three hits and Anna Marie Meek drove in three runs.

Roncalli capped its run to the championship game by ending North Central's tourney run. Rothrock struck out 16 Panthers.

Roncalli speedster Lyla Blackwell (2) reaches third base against North Central Saturday in semifinal tourney game at Ben Davis. Blackwell earlier had three hits, scored a run a stole a base against Southport.

Abigail Kirstein of Franklin Central launches a swinging bunt for a hit in Saturday's Marion County game with Brebeuf at Ben Davis.

Shortstop Audrina Yorn fires the ball to Franklin Central first baseman Ella Clouse to record an out Saturday against Brebeuf.

STUDENT OF THE YEAR IN TWO CLASSES

Eva Hurrle, a Roncalli High School sophomore, who plays volleyball, basketball and softball for the Royals, was named student of the year in choir and religion class. She is the daughter of Brian and Agena Hurrle.

Spencer Gayheart

Gayheart's two home runs in same inning propel Falcons over Royals

By AI Stille
Editor

Spencer Gayheart's stunning pair of home runs in the same inning helped give flight to Perry Meridian's march into the Marion County baseball tourney championship game.

Gayheart led off the fourth inning Saturday against host Roncalli in a semifinal tourney game when he slammed a waist-high fast ball for a solo home run for a 1-1 tie against the Royals.

And then in his second trip to the plate in the same stanza, the senior infielder hit a pitch that was up and inside for his bases-loaded home run over the left-centerfield fence.

"The first one started the hit parade," Gayheart said. "I made a big stomp on home plate (second home run), and there was a lot of there was a lot of screaming and yelling. I was going to wait for a fast ball on the next pitch; he threw it, so I hit it."

Amazingly, Gayheart had never hit a varsity home run for the Falcons until Saturday afternoon when he slammed two in the 11-run fourth inning against Roncalli.

The two homers propelled the Falcons (14-7) to the county title game against Speedway (11-5) at Victory Field, the home of the Indianapolis Indians, Tuesday (results too late for deadline).

Looking at the Falcons steady success, Gayheart said, "The culture here is incredible; everyone has each other's back. There's not one player who's trying to do too much. We are hitting and we don't make many errors in the field."

Aiden Kerr drove in two runs in the fourth and Brock Allison and Jake Phillips each had two hits. Phillips and Lane Allison shared the mound duties.

The 10-run win was a big relief for the Falcons after back-to-back 3-2 wins against North Central Friday and Franklin Central Saturday at Holder Field. PM tied the game against the Panthers 2-2 in the fifth and scored the winning run in the bottom of the seventh.

All runs in the PM-FC game were scored in the first three innings. The Flashes stranded seven runners. Allison, Gayheart, and Kolton Wright scored for the Falcons. Allison also has seven saves as a closing pitcher.

This stands as the fourth time the Falcons under coach Jake Banwart. They have had their share of close games this season with 14 of 21 games decided by three runs or less.

Banwart contends the Falcons, riding an eight-game winning streak, are right where they should be at this time of the season.

"This group believes in each other; they're never too high or too low," Banwart said. "We're finding ourselves on the right side of most of our close games. They're showing signs of what they're capable of and they're consistent."

"Our strength is in our hitting, big hits or bunts," Banwart said. "But we're doing well in every department."

After falling to PM, 11-1, Roncalli is 16-5 and had advanced through the tourney by defeating Warren Central 12-1 and Brebeuf Jesuit 12-10.

Beech Grove (7-8) slipped past Lutheran 7-3 Friday but lost to Park Tudor 14-2. The Saints are 11-7.

Decatur Central (9-8-1) fell in the opening round against Lawrence North 4-2.
