Rebels, Saints, Trojans sectional champs

Center Grove and Lutheran garnered girls volleyball sectional championships Saturday.

In an all-Southside Class 4A finale at Decatur Central, revenge-minded Roncalli dominated defending sectional champion Perry Meridian 25-18, 25-19, 25-12. The Rebels topped Pike 25-20, 25-15, 25-17 in semifinal action.

The Rebels have won 26 sectional trophies, including three since moving to 4A in 2011.

Roncalli junior Grace Hegwood led the Rebels with 17 kills and 14 digs, and freshman Miranda Wilson had 11 kills. Sophomore Abby Johnson added eight kills and was solid defensively at the net. Juniors Elizabeth Eads and Betsy Crosley each recorded seven. Senior setter Lauren Fey had 40 of the team's 50 assists and 15 digs, as did senior Libero Hannah.

"We were young last year, and we had the exact same team coming back," Coach Missy Marsh said. "We just jelled together and played well together. Playing Perry was easy to get hyped for (because) they put us out of the sectional last year so the girls wanted to avenge that loss. This team is made of girls who were not happy with the outcome of the season last year and decided to do something about it. They worked on strength and speed in the off season and chose daily to improve both physically and mentally. Our four seniors are very driven and they pushed our squad to be successful this year."

Against Pike, the Rebels were led by Hegwood, 10 kills and 8 blocks; Eads, 10 kills; Irmer 24 digs; and Fey, 31 assists.

The Rebels (25-8) won the Circle City Conference and the Marion County tourney. They are among 11 volleyball programs in the state with 25 or more sectional titles.

Perry Meridian junior standout Caitie Baird (Stanford commit) had 25 kills and senior Taylor Hooten had 14 assists for the Falcons (11-20)

Troupe staging first-class shows

By B. Scott Mohr Editor

Young thespians from the Southside don't have to venture so far from home anymore to get stage time now that the Agape Performing Arts Company calls Our Lady of the Greenwood home.

Agape (pronounced ah-gah-pay), Greek for the type of love that God has for all his people, is a ministry of the church and gets free rehearsal space but no funding.

The troupe was founded by Dr. Kathleen Phipps in early 2016 and caters to the 10- to 26-year-old age group. A lifelong theatre advocate with directing credits spanning more than 25 years, Phipps, has been involved with youth theater on the Southside since 2011

She earned her doctorate in theater from Michigan State University in 1993. Recent shows under her direction include "The Music Man," "Shrek: The Musical," "Les Miserables," "Godspell" and "Into the Woods Jr."

Phipps praises community theater because of its many assets. "It's a great place to meet people who are interested in the fine arts. It's so rewarding to watch the kids grow in their skills and gain confidence on the stage while building longlasting friendships. That confidence is carried over to real-life situations. The public benefits because it gets to enjoy great theatrical productions. It's a winwin situation for everyone involved."

'We have some kids who are great dancers, singers and actors," said assistant director Tracey Rollison. "You will see some of our kids in productions performed by the Indiana Repertory Theatre, Buck Creek Players and Footlite Musicals," added Rollison, who also serves as the company's community relations director. In other words, she can fill in wherever needed, although her forte is creativity and choreog-

She and Phipps are blessed to have Lynel Duffey assist with the casting process. Duffey directed and performed on Broadway and TV for years. The staff also features Christa Runion, who started at Disney World in Orlando Fla., and has choreographed and acted for Buck Creek Players, Indy Fringe and had a lead in "Calder: The Musical" at Indy Fringe last fall.

While Agape calls Our Lady of the Greenwood home, most of the company's productions are staged at McGowan Hall, 1305 N. Delaware St., on the Old Northside. "There is only so much we can do at Greenwood because it was not constructed as a theater," Rol-

Built in 1922 as the first Knights of Columbus council in Indiana, the theater is described as gorgeous by Rollison. "There are no posh luxuries, but the woodwork and period detailing are beautiful.'

The hall, which also hosts cultural, civic and private events ranging from wedding receptions to dances and concerts, seats about 300 people. Its balcony is being renovated by Alex Kalscheur as his Eagle Scout project so it meets building codes, and it will seat an additional 150 people when completed. Other parts of the theater are being revamped by McGowan's volunteer with help from troupe members

Perry Township Schools

Perry Township Schools is proud to announce its most recent school letter grades, released by the Indiana Department of Educa-

Our students, teachers, suppor staff and administrators have worked hard to ensure that our students are growing in their achievement. Because of their intentional work to meet every student's needs, we have earned nine A's, five B's and three C's.

Two of our elementary schools - Abraham Lincoln and Glenns Valley - increased from a C to an A

Our district has grown to 16,299 students, and our poverty level is above 70 percent. We serve more than 4,800 English learner students who speak 73 languages.

Schools Lincoln Elementary Clinton Young Elem. MacArthur Elem. Glenns Valley Elem Burkhart Elem. Homecroft Elem. Jeremiah Gray Elem. Mary Bryan Elem. Rosa Parks Elem. Southport Elem. Wincester Village Elem. Perry Meridian Sixth Grade Academy Southport Sixth Grade Academy Perry Meridian Middle Southport Middle Perry Meridian High Southport High

These grades are a combination of performance and growth on ISTEP for the elementary, sixth grade and middle schools. The performance makes up half of the letter grade, while the growth rate makes up the other half. The high schools' letter grades are based on graduation rate (30 percent), growth (20 percent), college and career ready (30 percent) and performance (20 percent).

Our district has earned maximum levels of growth points for English language arts and math. These grades and high growth are the result of our teachers' and staff's focus on students. In professional development groups, teachers learn strategies to support students' needs. Teachers and administrators use data to differentiate instruction for students and refine instructional strategies. Every educator in Perry Township is responsible for the success of our district.

Thank you for allowing us to provide excellent educational opportunities that prepare our students for success.

Cat, dog occupancy at a manageable rate

Indianapolis Animal Care Services has issued a thanks to residents and organizations for stepping in to assist with recent overpopulation at the shelter. Many cats and dogs previously housed at the facility are now in the care of loving homes thanks to the outpouring of support from the community. The shelter had reached a critical capacity due to a high intake of animals and owner-surrendered pets in the summer and early fall. Staff posted a sign on the shelter's intake door Sept. 7, urging owners to rethink surrendering their pets until Oct. 2, with the alternative meaning probable euthanasia due to the overcrowding.

Due to the community's support, the shelter was able to take down the sign earlier than expected. The Indy community rallied and did what it does best - it came together and lent a hand when the shelter was in Saints' play against GCA (25-9), which graduates Sierra Gilson, Grace Peters, Sarah Mangan and twins Aubrey and Lexi Odgens. Gilson and Peters had eight kills each against Central Christian.

After a slow start, Lutheran rallied to win the first set, which was tied 14 times. Lutheran built a 20-10 lead in the second set and a commanding 18-4 lead in the third one Junior Rylee Morris ended the match with her 11th kill. The Saints combined for 48 kills in the two matches with Erin Pasch nailing 19, Morris 13 and Dara Milivojak 12. Senior setter Kristen Simons accounted for most of the assists.

At Martinsville, Center Grove (32-5) grabbed its third straight sectional title by weathering a first-set 27-25 nail biter against rival Franklin and then rolling 25-12, 25-19. The Trojans earlier defeated Franklin Central 25-14. 25-21, 25-20,

The Trojans were led by the outside hitting of senior Ellen Lemasters, digs by Devynn Merriman and sets by sophomore MJ Hammill, who has recovered from a late-season ankle injury. Lemasters had 12 kills, including six in the first set against Franklin. Senior Emma Jones had six blocks.

The Grizzly Cubs led the first set 23-21, but the Trojans tied it twice before winning.

Lemasters remarked, "They were out to get us, so we knew we had to show up and play our best. We had the lead for most of the set and let them come back. We brought ourselves together and never gave up."

CG coach Maggie Harbison said her goal this week was to get the girls some rest and then she talked about their 32-win campaign. "We are healthier and not as young as last year," she said. "Everybody does their job and does their role. We're a gritty team, and we like to have fun. I don't think people realize that were as good as we are on defense."

Understand What It's Like to Live with Dementia

DEMENTIA Live

"Because it's frightening to care for someone you don't understand" is a high impact, dementia simulation experience which immerses participants into understanding life with dementia. This program gives a deeper understanding of what it is like to live with cognitive and sensory impairment.

This program helps to gain a better understanding of the daily struggles those living with dementia face. By experiencing some of the sensory changes and cognitive impairment typical of dementia, it helps develop a deeper understanding and heightened empathy for those living with dementia. This awareness helps build new bridges of communication leading to better communication and enhanced person-centered care.

The Dementia Live immersion program helps caregivers, families and friends of those with dementia to gain a better understanding.

The Dementia Live program is scheduled at 5 p.m. the last Wednesday of each month!

Attendees' comments included the following:

"I did not realize what my loved one was going through."

"it really helped me understand my clients better."

"I got a lot out of this and it really made me realize what was happening. I need to come through it again."

I am amazed at how fast time flies ... guess it's because I'm always

I enjoyed two reunions in September: the Edgewood all-school gathering and the one for my Class of 1960 at Southport High. My therapy dog, Stuart, attended the Southport reunion picnic so he could visit with the folks he has met over the years.

My good friend Richard Smith and his wife, Marsha, who were at their summer home in northern Indiana, came down for the reunion. A few weeks ago I was showing a picture of Marsha with the Southport Cardinal, who "flew" in for our picnic.

A week or so later, Marsha and Richard were back in town for a couple of days, visiting family and friends while on their way home to Austin, Texas. We usually get together for breakfast - often at the Lincoln Square Pancake House when they are passing through.

Richard and I have messed with each other for many years. He was the person who tricked me into meeting him at my family's old house (now The Longacre Tavern) on the evening that my friends and classmates held a roast in my honor there. Richard told several "Fred stories," claiming that he was getting even for a couple of "Smith" stories shared in this column.

On the morning of our breakfast, Lyn was running a little late so I decided to get to Lincoln Square a few minutes early in case there was a wait for a table. While sipping my coffee I thought about the breakfast that we had there in other years. That got me thinking about some of Richard's goofy eating habits.

He often ordered just one slice of toast. A couple of times I saw the "Why me?" look coming from our server.

When my server stopped to check on my need for coffee several weeks ago, I told her about Richard. I asked her if she could fix a slice of burned toast and serve it to him on her first trip to the table

She loved the idea and was laughing as she headed back to the kitchen. After Richard and Marsha and Lyn were seated, our waitress came to our table served him a burnt slice of toast.

He looked a bit shocked for a few seconds before seeing my "gotcha" smile. I glanced around and noticed that several tables and the staff enjoyed the antic

I am now frequently looking over my shoulder because I know he's going to get me.

A week or so after the reunions, Stuart was scheduled as the main speaker for the Perry Township/Southport Historical Society meeting. But he got a little nervous at the last minute and asked me to fill in for him. I showed some slides and talked about his work as a therapy

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of NORMAN "GENE" JONES 2/7/60 - 10/21/04

Late October days seem to hurt the most. I wear the pain like a heavy coat. Feel you everywhere I go. I see your smile, I see your face, hear you laughing in the rain. Still can't believe you're gone. It ain't fair you died so young. Like a story that had just begun. But death tore the pages all away. God knows how I miss you. All the hell that

I've been through just knowing no one could take your place. Sometimes I wonder who you would be today. Some days the sky's so blue, feel like I can talk to you. I know to many I sound crazy. The only thing that gives me hope is I know I'll see you again someday.

Hostetler files injunction; council votes for censure

Shara Hostetler has filed an injunction to block the Southport City Council's action last month that removed her as council president.

Appointed to the council by the Republican Party in 2016 and then elected president, Hostetler explained that the council had no cause to demote her. She has contended that the council's action was vindictive. She filed a lawsuit in federal court against the city earlier this year alleging that her constitutional rights had been violated by Southport police in searching her home in 2015, when she was a candidate for city clerk-treasurer.

The council advanced a revised ordinance Monday that calls for the council to elect or remove the council president "at the pleasure of the council" by majority vote.

Hostetler contended Monday that if there was nothing wrong with the existing ordinance or their action to remove her, then why is the ordinance being revised. First reading of the ordinance was advanced by a 3-2 vote with Councilors James Cooney, Joe Haley and Kenny Winslow voting in favor. Councilor Larry Tungent called the revision "a piece of trash." "I will not support backtracking and changing the law after the fact," Hostetler said. "The injunction is to uphold the rule of law for the city." By vote of 3-1-1, the council voted Monday to censure Hostetler, who abstained from voting, saying that "it wouldn't make any difference anyway." Tungent cast the nay vote. Haley made the motion to censure, claiming that Hostetler showed arrogance toward the city and her conduct was detrimental to the council. Last month the council handed down a 3-2 vote of no confidence against Hostetler.

Residents expressed disappointment and heartbreak over the arguing and bickering among councilors.

Former longtime Southport Clerk-Treasurer Marilyn Mayfield told the audience that the city is being torn apart by the recent controversies among the all-Republican council. "I'm beginning to think I'm living in Washington D.C.," she said.

Just 'leaf' 'em at the curb

The Indianapolis Department of Public Works' leaf collection program will run from Nov. 6 through Dec. 1, during which time residents may set out up to 40 bags of leaves per week in addition to their regular trash.

Leaves should be kept 3 to 5 feet away from the regular trash as they are collected separately.

The leaves will be taken to the Southside Landfill and turned into compost. When ready, the compost is available to Indianapolis residents at no charge (call 317-247-6808 for availability)

The four-week collection period is determined by the city's forestry team and agriculture experts from Purdue Extension to determine when trees are most likely to shed leaves.

Last year's campaign collected more than 5,000 tons of leaves.

Sidewalk project is finished

Beech Grove will host a ribbon-cutting ceremony at 10 a.m. Tuesday, Oct. 24, at First Baptist Church of Beech Grove, 5521 Churchman Ave., to celebrate the completion of the Churchman Avenue sidewalk project. Funding for the $979,000 initiative came from the Indiana Department of Transportation and the Indianapolis Metropolitan Planning Organization.

and their families.

Kalscheur has been in several productions, as has his sister, Ava, 14, an actress who also serves as stage manager.

"Ava is just terrific and highly organized; she is on point all the time," Rollison said. "There is a lot of talent in that family."

Although the troupe's members come from all over Greater Indianapolis, most of them and the staff members reside on the

Because Agape's shows resemble massive Broadway presentations, the stage has to be built out, taken down and stored for each production. And a lighting and sound system has to be brought in, as do props and roughly 200 costumes.

"Eventually the theater hopes to have good, permanent lighting and sound systems," she said.

One might think that performing about 13 miles from home would result in smaller audiences, but that's not the case.

"All of our shows except one have sold out," said Rollison, noting that several have been performed at Our Lady of the Greenwood and Roncalli High School.

The troupe is rehearsing for "Scrooge: The Musical," which will be staged for eight performances the weekend of Nov. 3-12. Tickets range from $4 to $15 and are available at www.agapeshows.org.

"We are able to keep our ticket prices low because we do all the work," Rollison said, "and we don't have any well-paid staff members. There's just the occasional honorarium.

We are attempting to make accessible, top-quality theater something that the Southside is known for," Rollison said. "Carmel has The Palladium and a dozen other things. The Southside doesn't have much aside from one community theater and school pro-

When away from the stage, Rollison keeps busy as a wife, a freelance writer/public relations person and a mother of three -Alec, 21; Bella, 18; and Gemma, 12; all three are Agape veterans. Her husband, Doug, a professional artist, is a production artist for the company

Rollinson, who can be reached at 317-709-3730 for more information about the troupe, earned her undergraduate and master's degrees from Taylor and Indiana universities, respectively.

Critics have nothing but praise for Agape: "You would be mistaken to assume that this was some charming little effort," one said, 'with cute kids attempting adult roles ... among the very best of shows I have seen from any youth theatre company.

Another noted that the presentation was breathtaking with voices that rival professionals.

The Southsider Voice is a proud supporter of the arts.
