Task force report excludes Manual

By AI Stilley Senior staff writer

Manual is one of two high schools not included in Indianapolis Public Schools' steps to close four high schools, beginning next year. Emmerich Manual and Thomas Carr Howe are under Indiana State Board of Education mandates and operated by Charter Schools USA, whose contract at Howe goes through 2017-18, Manual through 2919-20. IPS owns the property but provides no academic or other services at those schools.

Issued September 2016, the IPS Facilities Utilization Task Force report did not consider Howe or Manual. However, the report recommended that the Manual buildings not be operated as high schools, if returned to IPS control. The report did not predict what actions the state board would take when the charter contract ends

Several meetings were held earlier this year to discuss high school closures, including the final meeting recently at Garfield Park.

IPS administration plans to announce the schools for closure Thursday. The school board will hold meetings in July and August at each high school recommended for closure, with a final vote Sept. 28

Options for Manual, the city's oldest high school, would be to continue under the charter or under another charter but through the Indianapolis Mayor's Charter School Board. Manual has risen above its failing status with a D ranking in 2013-14 and D+ ranking last year. CSUSA came in with the 2012-13 school year as enrollment fell to 466.

Manual alumni Gordon K. Durnil and Alumni Association President Mary Hughes Glover are against any return to IPS, noting that the school's future lies as a charter institution

"IPS has no authority over Manual, Howe, Arlington and Emma Donan," said Durnil, a state political leader/attorney and 1954 Manual graduate. "As IPS schools are emptying out, Manual is growing.

He predicted that if Washington High is closed, many of those students would attend Manual, which would enhance the school's charter status.

"The report you have from IPS is based on a presumption that the takeover schools might be returned to IPS whenever the State Board of Education gives up its control," said Durnil, Manual's 2000 Alumni of the Year. "Even though the current decision by the board is that the schools would be transferred to the authority of the mayor.'

Glover said that alumni were not concerned about the task force's meetings because Manual was not in its discussions because of its state status

"It would be disgraceful if Manual fell back into IPS hands," Glover firmly said. "Manual (as a charter school) has done a good job with all the students. It would be hard to close Manual.

"Parents, alumni and Southsiders as a whole are pleased to see the academic results at Manual," Durnil stressed. "Manual is in a pattern of growth that IPS will not be able to maintain.

Durnil emphasized that the school has a graduation rate above 80 percent and nearing the state average, but only 39 percent under IPS

Charter Schools USA, administrators and faculty have emphasized discipline, introduced a credit recovery system, retention and expansion of JROTC and music plus improvements in athletics.

Manual has a proud history since its founding as Industrial Training School in 1895. In 1916 it was renamed Charles E. Emmerich Manual Training School and adopted its current name in 1966. The school's existing site at Madison Avenue and Pleasant Run Parkway opened in 1953 with 1,734 students. A $26 million improvement and expansion program was completed in 2007

Be wary of diseasecarrying ticks

Eskenazi Health pediatrician

Ticks are always an unwelcome nuisance during the warmer months of the year in central Indiana, but following the recent tragic news of a fatality involving a pediatric patient diagnosed with Rocky Mountain spotted fever, it's imperative that everyone be aware of ticks now more than

Rocky Mountains, it is most commonly seen in the southeastern and south central states.

The disease is spread to humans through the bite of an infected tick. Most often, the infected tick is a dog tick, but sometimes it can be a wood tick. cases tend to occur from April through September. The ailment most often affects children and teenagers younger than 15, especially those who spend time outdoors or have pets that might carry the ticks.

Infected children first have symptoms common to many other infectious diseases, including flu-like symptoms such as fever, muscle pain, severe headaches, vomiting, nausea and loss of appetite.

Symptoms usually appear about one week after the tick bite occurs. The incubation period, however, can range from two to 14 days

A rash develops in most cases, typically before the sixth day of the illness. The rash tends to appear first on the wrists and ankles, but within hours it can spread to the torso. It can also be found on the palms of the hands and soles of the feet.

The rash is red, spotted and raised. Other symptoms may include joint and stomach pain and diarrhea. In severe cases a person's blood pressure can drop and he may become confused As Svlvia Grav's silk paintings/wearable art and impressionistic oil paintings will be on display and for sale July 1-29 at the Southside Art League, 299 E. Broadway St., Greenwood.

Gray didn't begin actively pursuing her love of art until in her 40s, when she discovered the calming effect that making art had on her autistic son. "I never let a day go by without drawing or painting, trying to better my skills and more clearly express my emotions through art," she said. "I am a big believer in the magic of taking action toward your dreams.

An open house in her honor will be held from 6-8 p.m. Friday, July 14, and she will host a silk painting demonstration from noon-2 p.m. the following day. The gallery is open from 11 a.m.-3 p.m. Wednesday-Saturday. Info: 317-882-5562.

My wife, Lyn, and I have been season ticket holders of the Indiana Fever in the Women's National Basketball Association for about 10 years. It is so much fun getting to know fellow ticket holders who sit near us

We have great seats, which are near the Fever's bench. It is a busy area, and it takes several staff members from the fieldhouse and the team to keep everything going smoothly. I sometimes find it interesting to watch the trainers and medical staff as they attend to injured players.

The locker room for the officials is behind us, and they are escorted on and off the court.

I enjoy watching the coaches and the players on the bench as the game changes and the coaches alter their strategies. I have interviewed some of the players.

Friday evening the Fever hosted the Los Angeles Sparks, the reigning WNBA champions. The Fever got off to a good start, but the Sparks took over in the third quarter and won 84-73.

There was a special halftime ceremony as Tamika Catchings' No. 24 jersey was retired. She played 16 seasons in the league, all of them with the Fever. Tamika, the third overall pick in the 2001 draft, played at the University of Tennessee. She was named MVP of the WNBA finals in 2012, the year the Fever won it all.

She was also named Defensive Player of the Year five times and was a member of 10 All-Star teams. She is also a four-time Olympic gold medalist.

Tamika was emotional when addressing the crowd. She continues to reside in Indianapolis and is director of player programs and franchise development for the Indiana Pacers and the Fever.

Her parents and husband were on hand for the ceremony. Her father, Harvey Catchings, played in the NBA from 1974-85. Her husband, Parnell Smith, also a retired basketball player, was a member of Pike High School's 2001 and '02 state championship teams. He played at the University of Buffalo and then professionally for several years in Europe.

Former Fever coaches Lyn Dunn and Stephanie White, past players and friends were also present. It was real nice to see them again. Some members of Stephanie's family had seats near ours. She was named the women's basketball coach at Vanderbilt last year.

Pokey Chatman is the Feyer's new coach She was a player and later a coach at LSU. She has coached in Moscow and with the Chicago Sky.

Joining Tamika in the Fever's operations is the team's former point guard Tully Bevilaqua (2005-10), who is a player development coach

Except for the loss, it was a special evening.

Shonk is a 1960 graduate of Southport High School, a '63 grad of Indiana Central College (now the University of Indianapolis) and a retired bus driver from Beech Grove Schools.

Center recognized for patient care

Fairway Village, an American Senior Community center located at 2630 S. Keystone Ave. and across the street from Sarah Shank Golf Course, has been recognized for its commitment to patient care.

The center will receive Bronze - Commitment to Quality Award for dedication to improving the lives of residents through quality care at a convention in Las Vegas in October.

The award, which is modeled on core principles and criteria of the Baldridge Performance Excellence Program, will be presented by the American Health Care Association and National Center for Assisted Living.

"Bronze award recipients advance our mission of improving lives by delivering solutions for quality care," said Mark Parkinson, president and CEO of the association. "We applaud their efforts to enrich the lives of those we serve."

Update on Marsh in Beech Grove

To the editor:

As most of you know, the Marsh Supermarket on Albany Street in Beech Grove was not one of the 26 stores purchased in the recent sale. It is slated to close July 20.

Our city attorney has been in contact with representatives from Marsh for more than a month, and we have researched some options to provide food services to citizens who live in the area.

On June 23 I met with a group to discuss the prospect of opening a grocery store at the soon-to-be-vacant property. I felt that the meeting went well, and further discussions will soon be taking place.

Out of respect for all of the people involved, I will not speak publicly about the group involved or its intent until after July 12, which is when the bankruptcy judge rules on the sale of the Marsh stores.

Arts & Entertainment HAPPENINGS

ISO Among Performers at Garfield Park The blast of trumpets, the warmth of woodwinds and the thunder of percussion will permeate the air of Garfield Park when the Indianapolis Symphony Orchestra takes the stage of the MacAllister Center for the Performing Arts, 2450 Shelby St., at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday, July 12. Patrons can grab a seat in the amphitheater or bring a blanket or lounge chairs and enjoy a picnic on the lawn. Either way, they'll find themselves humming along to familiar melodies throughout the free concert.

Presented by the Friends of Garfield Park, the free event is among those annually supported by the organization. Donations for the group's work can be made at www.garfieldparkindy.org.

The Pops Series continues at 7 p.m. Thursday, July 6, with a rousing performance of jazz, pop and classical songs by the Twilite Nites. Patrons can grab a seat in the amphitheater or bring a blanket or lounge chairs and enjoy a picnic on the lawn.

The program will feature concerts at 7 p.m. every Thursday this month, with the Indianapolis Municipal Band taking the stage July 13. The Greater Greenwood Community Band and the Pride of Indy Concert & Jazz Bands will perform July 20 and July 27, respectively. The New Horizons Band of Indianapolis will close out the series Friday,

Aug. 4. Other free shows include the Edward Zlaty and the GMH Jazz Orchestra in a Pack the Park concert at 4 p.m. Saturday, July 8, and the Indianapolis Jazz Orchestra performing at 7 p.m. Thursday, Aug. 3, at the Sunken Gardens

Endearing Play Depicts Southern Women

Often referred to as one of the most delightful plays about Southern women, "Belles" will open Friday, July 7, at Epilogue Players, 1849 N. Alabama St., for a three-weekend run.

The production visits six Southern sisters who, over the course of an autumn weekend, seek to bridge the physical and emotional distance between them via the telephone, and in the process come to terms with their shattered family history. Curtain time is 7:30 p.m. Fridays and Saturdays, 2 p.m. Sundays.

Tickets, $13 per senior, $15 for general admission, can be reserved by calling 317-926-3139 or visiting www.epilogueplayers.com. Tickets can be purchased at the door if available.

CAR NUTZ Cruisin' to large Corvette show A national car show called Bloomington Gold Corvettes USA was launched in Illinois in 1974. By 1977 it was the largest gathering in the country for Corvette enthusiasts. The show has moved around the Midwest as ownership has exchanged hands over the years. Bloomington, Springfield and St. Charles, all in Illinois, have been home to the event at one time or another.

In 2015 the show made its debut at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway, where it drew a huge crowd over the weekend.

The event supports hundreds of vendors selling new and used parts for all years of 'Vettes. There is a dedicated field of Corvettes only for sale. Chevrolet displays current models with test rides available.

The Spring Mountain Corvette School has a booth full of information with demos and presentations about its program in Nevada. Judging events are conducted to certify a 'Vette as a "survivor," a "benchmark" or "gold" with a written document that can add thousands of dollars to the car's value.

A popular happening is the annual road tour, which typically fea-tures more than 2,000 Corvettes on a 40-mile romp through the local countryside under police escort. At previous shows the jaunt made 'The Guinness Book of World Records" for the longest continuous line of Corvettes

There was also an all-Corvette Mecum auction Saturday night to cap off the many activities. Bloomington Gold usually draws 50,000 people over the three-day show. Until next time, happy cruisin'!
